MESSAGE from the Director

To all international students looking forward to studying in Japan

Warmest greetings from Kobe, Japan, and welcome to the latest issue of KIT! In the last issue, we reported the arrival of 2022/23 YiJ students. Time flies. They successfully completed the program in May this year. We then welcomed Summer Intensive Program students led by Prof. Julie A. Iezzi, Resident Director (RD) from the University of Hawai'i at Mānoa, in June-July. Last year's YiJ RD, Dr. Chris Callahan completed his term at the end of July and this year's RD, Prof. Kimberly Jones from the University of Arizona arrived in Kobe. After that, we experienced an unprecedentedly hot summer. Entering September, the temperatures started to go down, and insects resumed their chirping after the sunset. We can sense fall is right around the corner. We were happy to welcome 25 students for the 2023/24 YiJ program at Okamoto Campus on September 7. It is great to report that we have hosted nearly 90 international students (including Asian students from partner universities and short-term students), and have sent 80 Konan students overseas so far this year. We are grateful for the efforts and support of all of our partner universities to make all of these things happen.

Director Prof. Kyoko Matsukawa

INBOUND 2023-2024 Year-in-Japan Program

Students coming from our Partner Schools

It is my very great pleasure as the Resident Director of the Year-in-Japan (YiJ) Program to welcome 25 new inbound students to Kobe. The students arrived on September 6th and have been settling into life in Japan. I have been contemplating the very large number of students who have benefited from this wonderful program over the years since its inception. From serving as the Resident Director once before (fourteen years ago), I know how all of us connected with YiJ will learn, grow, and stretch ourselves through our participation in the program. I am delighted to be back working with the KIEC faculty and staff to support our inbound students as they encounter Japan, in most cases for the first time!

Resident Director / Deputy Director Prof. Kimberly Jones
